- What are your core values and beliefs ?
  As a junior web developer I bring a collaborative approach to projects, combining technical expertise with a commitment to creating user-centric solutions. With a strong focus on continuous learning and adaptability. My core values include a dedication to teamwork, user satisfaction, integrity and a proactive embrace of change.These principles guide my work, fostering positive and innovative contribution to my project.

- What are your goals and aspirations?
  As a developer my goals revolve around technical mastery and innovative contribution to the field. I aspire to master a diverse set of programming languages and frameworks, and contribute innovative solutions to web development challenges. Actively participating in open source projects is my other aspiration , as I seek to share my expertise and make a positive impact on the developer community.

- What are your first steps you will take to build your personal brand?
  To establish a personal brand as a web developer, creating an online presence through a personal portfolio website and optimized linkedIn profile.optimize personal social media with professional image, and showcase my personal project with details. Engage in the developer community through forums and platforms like GitHub.

- How does personal branding differ from self promotion and why is this distinction important?
  In my perspective personal branding and self promotion are quite the same in a way. But personal branding and self promotion has differences, and it's a profession. Because if you promote yourself just to be famous or you can have various reasons, and personal branding is to promote yourself in the cover of your profession. That's why , when you start personal branding people know you by your profession and work . And as a web developer we all can start personal branding not promote ourselves.

- What are you most proud of?
  Most proud moment I have experienced is in February 2023. Actually I am from a middle class family, so that's why me and my family were struggling for money a lot. At that time I managed web designing work, after finishing the work I got some money. With these I bought some clothes for my mother and I gave some money to my father , and they both were so happy . So I decided to work more efficiently. But for me the most proud moment will come , when I could bear all my family expenses, so that father can relax. And I know that will be the happiest day I have ever experienced.
